WE THE

of the Senior Class of Washington-Lee, in order to coordinate student activities, express student wishes in an organized manner, and secure the blessings of such actions for ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish the Student Government of Washington-Lee.

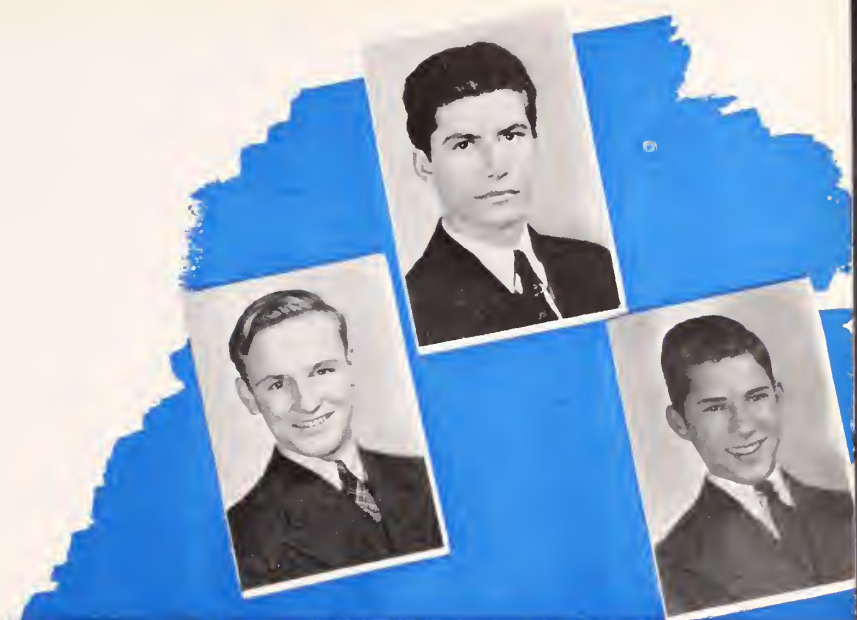

On the basis of the authority so granted, the Student Government has engaged in many activities known to the students. The handbooks, caps and pennants, and the Alumni Dance were all sponsored by the Student Government.

What the future may bring is hidden to all eyes, but this group stands ready to do its best, with several ambitious plans before it.

We, therefore, the representatives of the students of Washington-Lee, in regular session assembled, appealing to our faculty sponsor for aid in adversity, do, in the name and by authority of the students of these classes, solemnly publish and declare that by such authority we shall enact all manner of things which we of right may do. And in support of this resolve, we mutually pledge to each other our time, our efforts, and our best intentions.

DEDICATED

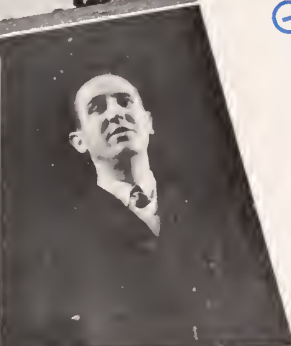

Most heartily to YOUTH—girls and boys in their teens on parade the world over, striving with their best efforts for a notable place on the step-ladder of world fame. In their best moments they are eager and willing, attentive and understanding, but then, too, they are carefree, boisterous, and fun-loving, sometimes doing wrong and sometimes being stubborn and selfish. But with all their faults, whatever they may be, there can be no future without YOUTH.

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE TO THE SENIOR CLASS OF 1940

"Your high school days are almost at an end. In a few days the members of your class, the Class of 1940, will be scattered. The reason for having been grouped together ceases to exist. You have met the requirements for graduation. In June of this year you will march by the Superintendent who will hand you your diploma. It will be your commencement.

Then in a few months hence you will begin to make new adjustments, to join new groups, to assume other tasks. If you follow the general pattern of the classes who preceded you, about one out of every three of you will enter some institution for further systematic training. The majority of you who make up the other two-thirds of the class will secure employment. Whether you have planned to or not, all of you will continue your education. You cannot avoid experience from which you will learn. You do not want to. Eventually you will be a product of what you have experienced and of what you met your experiences with.

Look back for a moment and make a mental note of the mistakes of omission and commission that you have made in your high school course. Then you will be ready for the next stage in your life. Set your course and go to work—do not misunderstand me, I do not mean that you should take time to grieve over what you should have done and didn't do, nor what you did and shouldn't have done, but rather that in the light of your mistakes you plan your future with greater care and thoroughness.

If you go to another educational institution after you leave Washington-Lee, you will be conscious of the provisions that are made for you to learn. If it is not your lot to continue your education in an institution of higher learning, the responsibility for your further development rests more squarely on your own shoulders. Through books, newspapers, and the radio all of you will continue to have something in common to further your education. It is the sincere hope of the teachers and the Principal of your school that the foundation they have helped you form will be worthy of the best life you can build upon it.

I am taking this space with both fear and hope—a fear that you could have used it more advantageously and a hope that I might leave here a worthwhile thought for you. In a short while this book will be a part of your high school record. What you do after this will be recorded elsewhere. Remember what you do is important to you, but how well you do it is important to all of us and all of those who will follow us. When you can honestly say of what you have done "This is my best" you will have won

Yes—this is your annual, a record of you and your school. You have experienced the joy of making it. Is it not a sample of what can be done through work, thought, careful planning, and co-operation? Soon you will put it aside with your other valued possessions, but the experience recorded on these pages, like all your other experiences, will have become a part of you."

CLAUDE M. RICHMOND
Principal

The first citizen of Washington-Lee, Mr. Claude M. Richmond, our Principal, who has set for us a shining example of what a good citizen should be, has made himself endeared to all pupils.

MRS. FRANCES C. BELL
Vice Principal

To our vice-principal, Mrs. Frances C. Bell, friend of all students, we give our everlasting affection.

She leaves us with this message.

"Each year it is with a feeling of both joy and sorrow that I witness the graduation exercises—joy, because you as seniors have attained your first major objective—sorrow, because I shall know you no more in the intimate relationship of school life.

There is also a feeling of regret and frustration that we as adults are sending you forth into a world that seems to have forgotten the tenets of the Golden Rule.

So I would recommend to you for future meditation the immortal words of Rabbi Ben Ezra (Browning)

Then welcome each rebuff
That turns earth's smoothness rough.
Each sting that bids nor sit nor stand
But go!

Be our joys three-parts pain!
Strive, and hold cheap the strain;
Learn, nor account the pang;
Dare, never grudge the throe!"

MRS. FLORENCE BALDWIN
Secretary

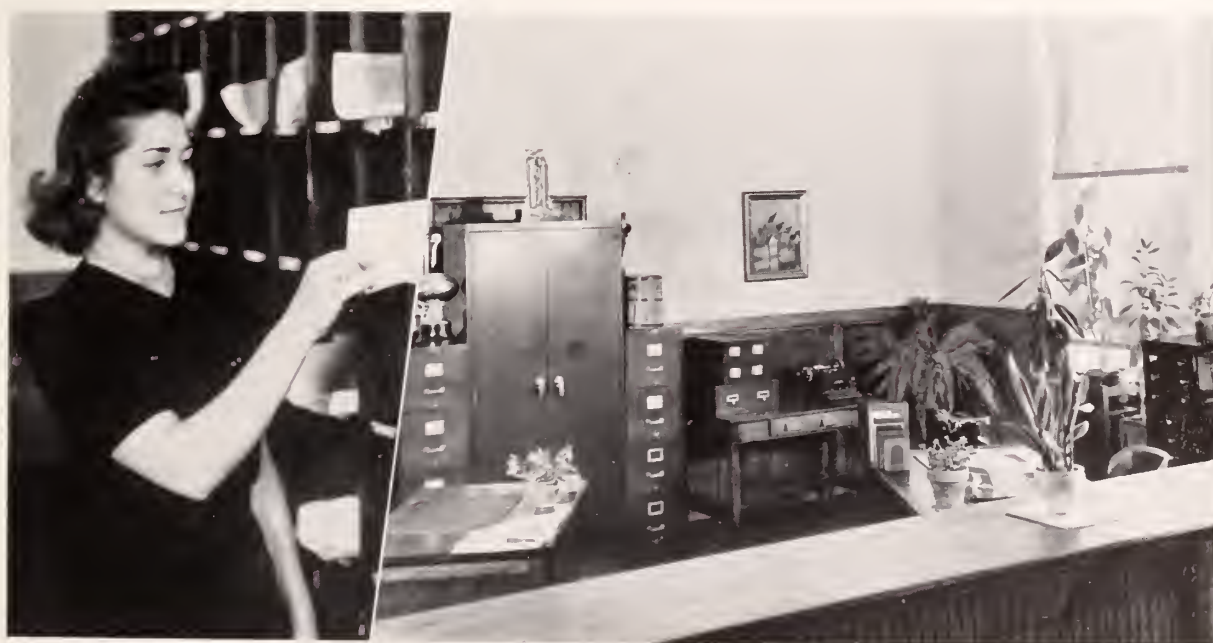

THE CENTER OF ALL THE HUM OF BUSY LIFE

In and around Washington-Lee is the office. Here it is that students may find the solutions to the problems that confront them in everyday school life. Here it is also that newcomers receive their introduction to life at W-L.

Mrs. Baldwin, the gracious secretary to Mr. Richmond, manages the complex affairs of the office in a very efficient manner, and still finds time to be the students' sympathetic friend and adviser.

Pictured below are two scenes of the office, one of Anna Corcoran, office assistant, at the letter boxes by which the members of the faculty receive all their school correspondence, and the other showing a general view of the office.

And here are our teachers

In Memoriam

Sunset and evening star,
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of
the bar
When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
To full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out
the boundless deep
Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell,
When I embark;

For tho' from out our bourne of
Time and Place
The flood may bear me far,
I hope to see my Pilot face to face
When I have crossed the bar.

Thus it was with Miss Payne when the sunset and last call came for her. It came very early in her life, but then, she was one of the few who can accomplish more good in a short lifetime than others who live to reach old age. Miss Payne, with her charm, kindness, and accomplishments, was a great asset to the faculty as well as to the pupils she taught in her classroom. This school is proud to have had such a person in its midst. She favored no one pupil but was more than thoughtful to the ones who were less fortunate than others. She gave help to those in need, not for the thanks or benefits she might have gained, but for the simple joy of living. Those whom she helped will never forget her kindness to them. She passed on to those whom she taught not only her knowledge but a different aspect of life than they had before. She taught them to use their common sense as well as their knowledge received from books. Her pupils admired and loved her for her simplicity, goodness, and kindness. For this reason they learned from her, respecting her judgment and knowledge.

It may seem strange that God took her from us so soon but we are not given the power to understand. He may have taken her in all her glorious youth because she had done her share of good in this world. Miss Payne departed from us over a year ago, but she will always remain in our memory as one who did her best to lighten our lives with the sunshine of her smile.

JUST A SMALL GROUP

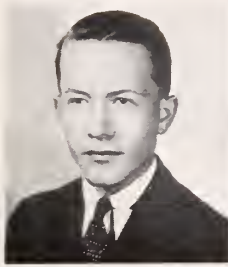

But such a happy one was the February graduating class, under the leadership of Miss Elliott. It only had forty-three members and perhaps it wasn't noticed as much at times as it should have been, but when its members left Washington-Lee, everybody missed them.

"Where there's a will, there's a way" is a saying that applied to this group. Since the aim of every February Class has been to have a dance and banquet, this class, for the first time in the history of Washington-Lee, held a semi-formal dance and banquet before graduation, just as all June classes do.

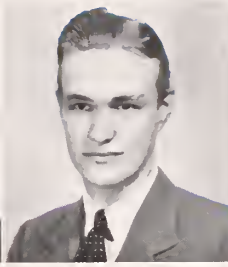

12-B CLASS OFFICERS: William Hill, President; Wilbur Williams, Vice-President; and Anna Corcoran, Secretary.

THANKS FOR

*Thanks for the memories
Of English, Math, and Law
Pictures we would draw,
Of spitting out our chewing gum
And the funny things we saw
Oh—Thank you so much.*

*Thanks for the memories
Of rising after eight
Not chewing what we ate
Of running all the way to school
And getting there too late
Oh—Thank you so much.
Many's the times we stayed in*

THE MEMORIES

*Because we weren't as good as we should've been
There were also some games we didn't win
But we did have fun
With all we've done here*

*Thanks to our teachers too
They taught us very good
And helped us all they could
Even when they knew that
We weren't doing as we should
Oh—Thank you Washington-Lee.*

Will never forget it.

IN TRUE LIFE

Diary, Jr.

FIRST DAY OVER

Our first day at W-L in the Seventh grade is over; and it was swell, but you should see all those big Juniors and Seniors! The building is just about the biggest one we've ever seen. We're just a little scared, but everyone is very nice to us.

SECOND YEAR BEGUN

Boy, now we can call those seventh graders green! Why just look at us—we've been here for ages—a whole year.

FRESHMEN:—JUST FRESHMEN

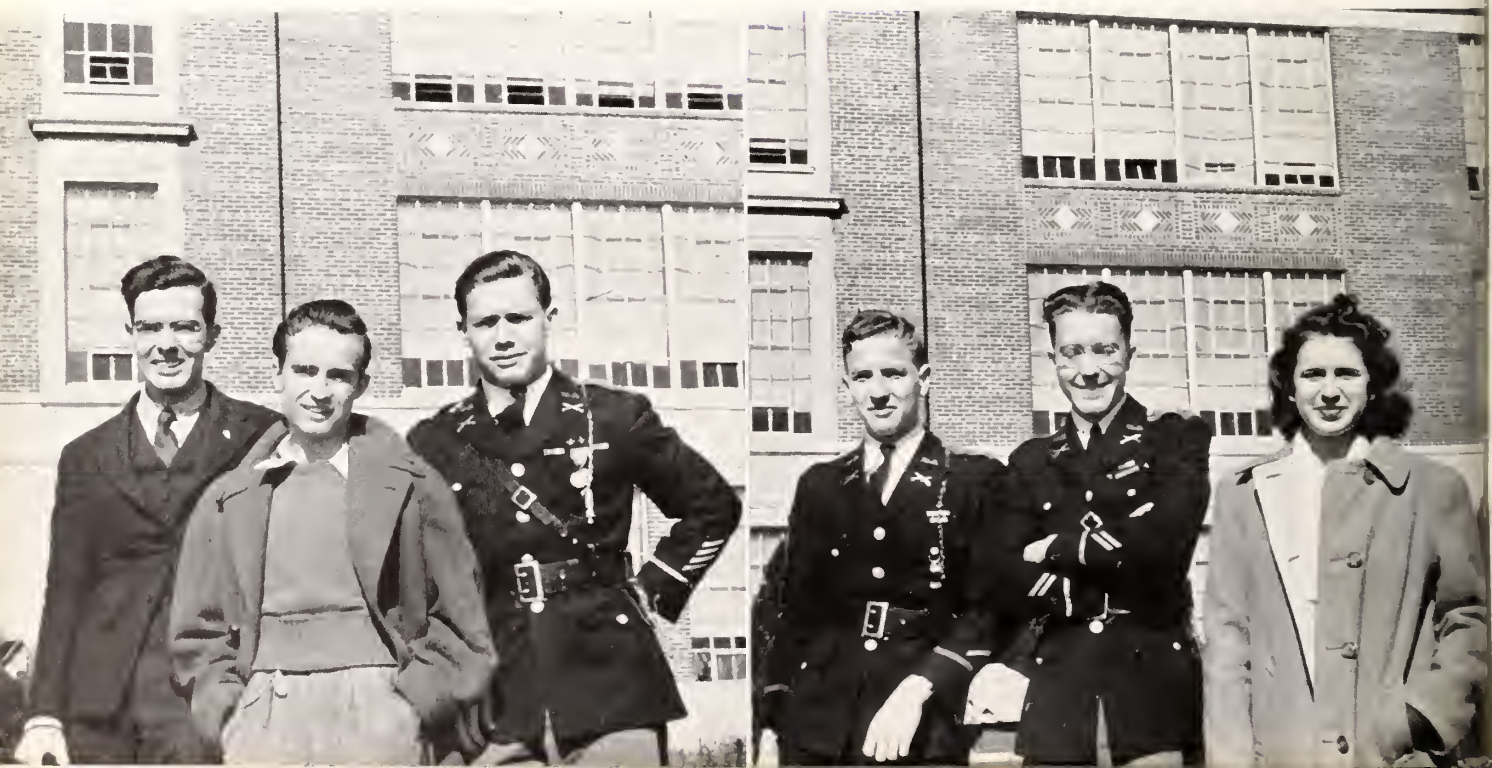

Oh dear! How lonesome it is since some of our best friends have gone to Thomas Jefferson Junior High. But they'll be back again next year.

SOPHOMORES! — WE'RE GETTING THROUGH SLOWLY BUT SURELY.

This year we've really shown the world. We were the first to wear the good old purple and gold, and we made up our own words to "Alexander's Ragtime Band," and made that the sophomore class song.

11B CLASS OFFICERS: John Tompkins, President; Robert Oakes, Vice-President; and Billy Gore, Secretary-Treasurer.

11A CLASS OFFICERS: Dan Johnson, President; Hilton Bonney, Vice-President; and Letitia Robinson, Secretary-Treasurer.

WHEEEEEEE! JUNIORS AT LAST

11B, First Row: R. Arnaud, C. Ayre, R. Bassford, S. Brown, B. Buchholz, W. Burnett, W. Choate; Second Row: E. Cole, B. Conley, E. Conroy, D. Corcoran, T. Creekmore, M. Cronin, M. Davis; Third Row: D. Dawkins, M. Dugard, B. Fletcher, L. Fowler, J. Fraber, J. French, P. Gahagan; Fourth Row: F. Goodrick, W. Goodrich, M. Gore, W. Gore, D. Haddox, J. Hardie, L. Harrow; Fifth Row: M. Harward, M. Hite, M. Hoover, E. Huber, F. Hunt, B. Jeffries, G. Jones.

One more year and—oh but we haven't even had time to think about next year, what with all the parties that we've given—especially our fall party and the Junior-Senior Prom. We're howling successes, as any junior can tell you!! (Seniors, too, if they only will.)

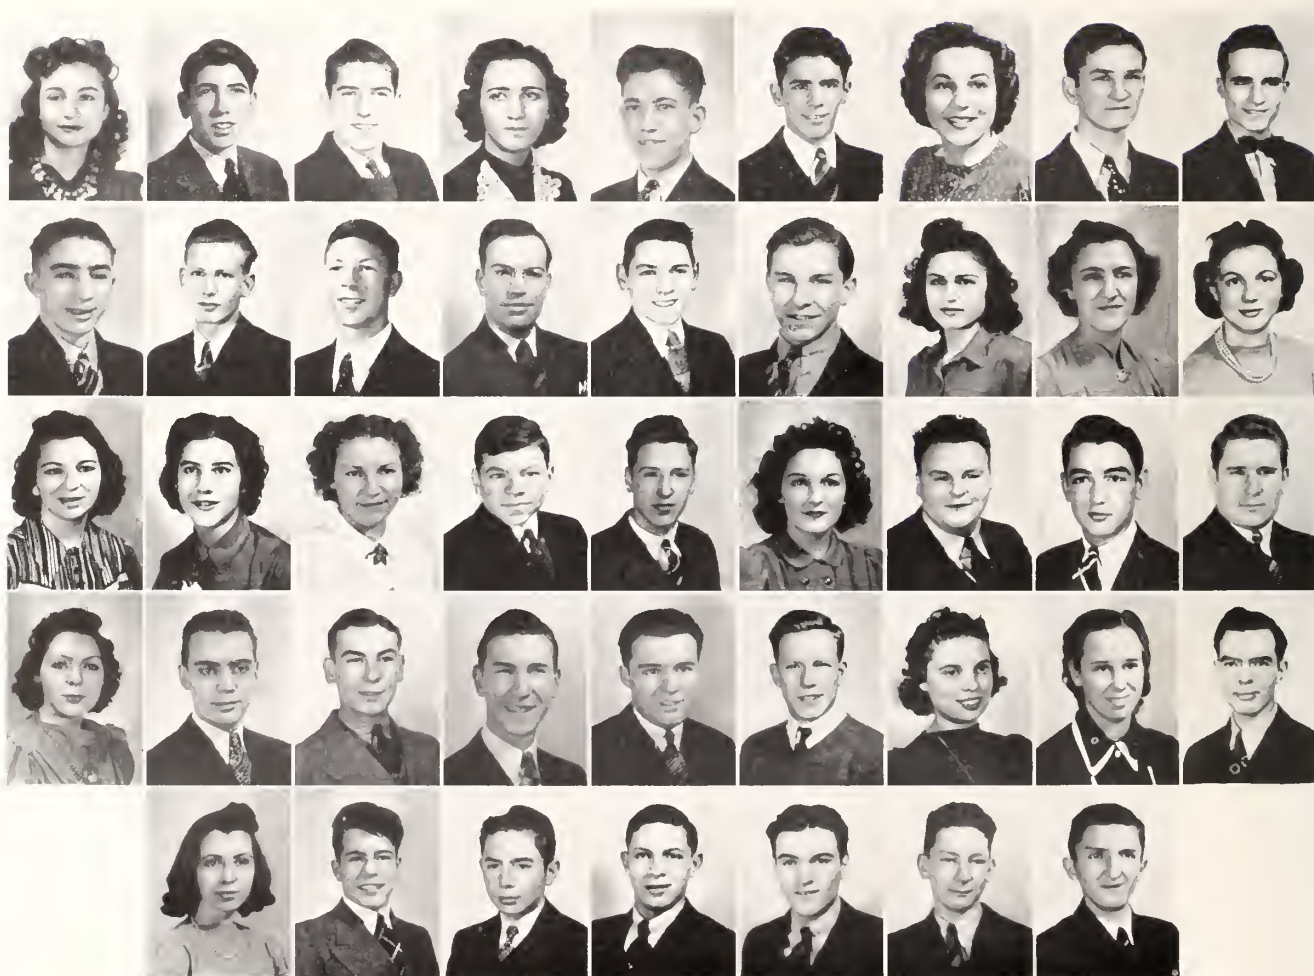

And really you have never seen so many juniors participating in ALL school activities, from the basketball teams to the Student Government.

Next year as a Senior Class, just watch our colors fly! And now so long 'til this time next year when you'll be reading our Annual!

"HOBGOBLIN HOUSE"

There is a saying (Confucius?) that too many cooks spoil the broth. Mr. Rich and Mrs. Kielsmeier proved conclusively that two cooks are not too many, provided the product is the Senior Class's three-layer, chocolate, de luxe "Hobgoblin House Special" devil's food cake, made with the very best ingredients and several weeks of vigorous stirring.

The cake was iced in pale blue, decorated with a Headless Phantom, a skull, a bloody cleaver, the blood-dripping head of the Phantom, and a few other items not tending to be conducive to excellent sleeping.

Despite its unprepossessing appearance, the three layers were enjoyed by all consumers.

The cooks, being old hands at the game, chose their ingredients only after careful testing. As finally selected, they were:

2 cups sugar—Virginia Gray and Helen Phillips as Marian and Jill Carter.

2 eggs (fresh?)—Paul Hughes and Paul Johnson as Jack Loring and Frank Harlow.

1 cup slightly rancid butter—Jerry Holloway as Darius Krupp.

2 blocks chocolate—Mary Brown Briles and Carey Dorsett as Delilah Worts and Henry Goober.

1 tsp. "Merry England" Brand mixed spices—Nancy Wilson as Susan Parkins.

1 cup winter wheat flour—Catherine Coffman as Miss Priscilla Carter.

1 tsp. "Nas-T" Brand baking powder—George Craig as Jim Bronson.

½ cup of sour milk—"Click" Martin as Bill Wilkins.

1 tsp. "Unknown Quantity" Brand baking soda—Connie Kelly as Patricia Arnold.

'Twould seem, perhaps, from the recipe that the cake was rather solid and heavy, but the lightness which was truly its make-up was efficiently provided by the chocolate and spices.

After the aforementioned stirring, together with careful blending, the cake was baked and tested. The test was satisfactory, and the next day the cake was served to a group of some 1,200 epicures.

The glorious creation was served in the auditorium at 8.00 p. m., accompanied by thunder, lightning, burned out lights, screams, and various other aids designed to put the digestive organs of the epicures in proper functioning order.

The pride of our two cooks was baked with several well-remembered favors inside. Those favors were distributed throughout the cake with matchless skill, and all consumers recieved an equal amount.

The cake was served in three courses, with a slight breathing spell between each to give the consumers a chance to prepare for the next.

Among the favors in the first course were a well-appreciated clinch between a cup of sugar and an egg, and a friendly skull that dropped in through the chimney for a fireside chat. A couple of embryonic ghosts also were discovered in this course.

The second course brought our embryonic ghosts to their full haunting growth, and they straightaway tested their abilities. Another delightful favor was the Headless Phantom, which cheered the eating immensely. This course was excellently topped off with the favor of the appearance of the Phantom's Head, tucked away in the corner.

In the third course the most outstanding favors were a kidnapped heiress, three captured kidnappers, and seventy-five thousand dollars to be distributed in a three-way split. Not to be forgotten were a pair of clinches that would make Hollywood green with envy.

Students of Washington-Lee High School, Arlington, Virginia:

Dear W-L Pals: Well, here it is almost time for me to turn my job over to some lucky (?) Junior. I've been sitting here for quite a little while now just thinking about it, and it has made me remember the many things that have happened this past year. It seems that one always remembers the events of the past when facing the future, as I am now. It just must be human nature I guess. Would you like to remember with me?

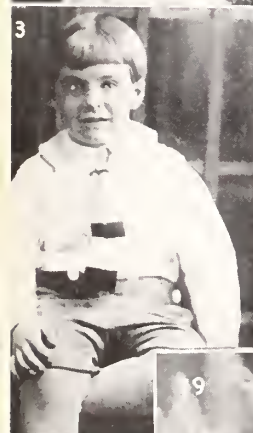

Do you remember 'way back there in the Dark Ages of October or so when the Seniors voted to graduate in white (for girls) and blue (for boys) caps and gowns? That really started the ball rolling for a very energetic Senior Class. The one-way traffic system started not long afterwards. At first we all thought it was terrible, but, even though we still would not admit it, it was a wonderful improvement over the old traffic system. There wasn't as much congestion in the halls and the students' feet were much more comfortable in shoes that weren't always stepped on.

Then you just can't forget all the fuss that was raised about the "Crossed Sabres" headline "LITTLE GENERALS ON GRAVY TRAIN." The teachers thought it was silly and the students didn't know what to think. Jack Olmsted's "On the Beam" column in the newspaper also supplied a bevy of creased brows and scratched heads with such "jive" expressions as these: "the blackstick boys," "popping their corn," "it's a killer-diller," and "shoot the corn to me, John Boy."

In a different way "With Apologies to Lincoln" caused some puzzlement in the assembly one day until the dawn came to those listening, and then a ripple of giggles issued forth. This is what was read by Paul Johnson:

"From four to six years ago, our younger selves brought forth in this school a new class, conceived by destiny, and dedicated to the proposition of obtaining an education. Now we are engaged in a great struggle, testing whether that class, or any class so conceived and so dedicated can succeed. We are met in one phase of that struggle. We have come to dedicate a portion of that time to become better acquainted with each other. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this. But in a larger sense we cannot educate, we cannot learn, we cannot do anything without the help of those who have gone before. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have given us a great opportunity. The world will little note, or long remember, the particular activities of this class, but it can never forget the activities of those who gave us our opportunity. It is for us, the learning, to be dedicated to the grave task remaining before us, that from these honored friends and helpers who have been, and are helping us, we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave their all: that we here highly resolve that these workers shall not have worked in vain, that this class, under our sponsors and teachers, shall have a new birth of knowledge and that striving of the class, by the class, and for the class, shall not perish from the school."

Then came "Confucius say"—

Man who swimmeth in H₂O is all wet.

Man who liveth on a hill is not on the level.

Man who drinketh gold paint feeleth guilty inside

He who weareth ice-skates in house will soon cut a rug.

One hat sayeth to another "I'll go on ahead." Cute?

There was the Williamsburg jaunt, which proved to be quite a hilarious occasion for all concerned. Those at home enjoyed themselves while roller skating down at the famed Independence Avenue. On one Friday night, practically all of W-L was down there to celebrate the victory of the Little Generals over Western High.

Naturally all of this time the fashion world was still busy issuing new fads and fashions. Some snappy (?) little numbers (well liked by the girls anyway) such as laced-up socks, plaid shoestrings, glass bubble bracelets, vegetable necklaces, and the like, not to mention all the varied hats, were cooked up.

I never will forget the day when the Band played "The Beer Barrel Polka"—Connie Kelly's piercing screams that sent shivers up and down my spinal column during the performance of "Hobgoblin House"—the day I saw Forrest Tucker in school all spruced up the Hollywood way—the yell "Hi Ho Silver" when the National Symphony Orchestra played the "William Tell Overture"—and so many other things.

I can't write much about the Cadet Play, Prom Night, or the other late events but I know I can say the Cadet Play, "Growing Pains," was excellent; the Senior Prom was swell-elegant; and the Senior Year was the best of all years.

Have you ever heard any of these?

The equator is an menagerie lion running around the earth and through Africa.

Nitrogen is not found in Ireland because it is not found in a free state.

The wife of the duke is a ducky.

The skeleton is a man with his inside out and his outside off.

An adult is a man that has stopped growing at both ends but not in the middle.

What did Paul Revere say at the end of his ride? Whoa.

Three shots rang out. Two of the servants fell dead and the other went through his hat.

Robert Louis Stevenson got married and went on his honeymoon. It was then that he wrote "Travels with a Donkey."

What do you think of them? I found them in a book called "Boners from Students' Exam Papers" by Dr. Seuss.

I was also looking in another book ("Wise Cracks" by C. O. and E. E. Frederick) and I found these.

A miss in the car is worth two in the engine.—Louisville Times.

My car runs a little way and then stops—a spurt model.—Judge.

A dachshund is half a dog high and a dog and a half long.—Carnegie Puppet.

An onion a day gives your diet away.—Knickerbocker Press.

I guess I've filled about two pages now. I hope that I have recalled some school-day memories for you and at the same time, have given you something to laugh (or maybe snicker) at.

Smooth Sailing!

Thanksgiving Morning 1949-50

"Greetings, Sport Fans of the World! This is your favorite sports announcer, Amos Tellall, about to describe to you the fifteenth annual clash in the "Old Oaken Bucket" Series between Washington-Lee High School of Arlington and George Washington High of Alexandria. The sun is shining and, outside of being a bitter cold day, it is ideal football weather. We are broadcasting from the top of Washington-Lee's new $500,000 bowl, and it looks like we have a record crowd today. The teams are on the field warming up and just as soon as they return to their locker rooms for final instructions, this great event will get under way.

As everyone knows, this game is being played one week ahead of the usual Thanksgiving date because the President of the United States, Mr. Claude Richmond, moved it up to give more time for shopping before Christmas. Incidentally, President Richmond was at one time Principal of Washington-Lee.

To many people this game seems to be an exact repetition of the W-L, G-W game ten years ago today. Not only has Thanksgiving been moved up a week but also W-L has been experiencing a very successful season. If they manage to beat this strong G-W team, they will have come through a ten game schedule undefeated and untied. Coach Wally Legg of the Little Generals, a 1939 star, is largely responsible for the success of this year's team; but Coach Legg doesn't deserve all the credit, as Line Coach "Hardrock" Kelly, also a 1939 star, has a line so powerful and strong that opposing teams have named them the "Seven Little Rocks."

Just a moment, Ladies and Gentlemen! Here comes the Cadet Corps of W-L. Leading them is a familiar figure, Lieutenant-Colonel Robert Sims of the United States Army, P. M. S. & T. at W-L and the former Lieutenant-Colonel of the 1940 Cadet Corps. Just behind the Cadets is the Auxiliary, marching in perfect formation and cadence, led by Miss Nancy Lee Throgmorton, a teacher of chemistry in the school and P. M. S. & T. of the Auxiliary. Strangely enough, she also was at one time the Major of the 1940 Auxiliary.

The one hundred piece band under the direction of Leo Fox has just played the school song and the teams are again on the field. W-L has won the toss and has elected to receive at the North goal. The teams are lining up, as the cameras of the Poos's Newsreel Company are grinding away, covering the field from all angles. There goes the kicker running up to the ball, and the ball is sent spinning up high into the air. With that kick this great classic is once more underway."

(So the game progresses).

"And there goes the final gun ending the great game with the scores of 21 for W-L and 7 for G-W; and the only reason G-W scored was a long lucky pass made in the closing minutes of the game. What a happy bunch are these rooters of W-L, who at this moment are forming into the traditional "Snake Dance" and are tearing down the goal posts. As usual the Class of '40 seems to be leading the crowd.

I will now turn the mike over to Mr. Louis Miller. Take it away, Louis!"

"Well, here we are down on the field and if possible I'll try to identify some of the crowd for you although it has been ten years since I've seen some of them. Well, well, look who is leading the dance. If it isn't Mr. Paul Johnson, that new young President of General Electric Company. Incidentally, Paul was the President of the Class of '40. He must like the title of President. Right behind Paul are—What's this? A glamour parade? They are none other than Misses Priscilla Blackford, Dorothy Richardson, Catherine Daniel, Ernestine Hudson, Norma Ward, and Betty Chinn, who are the internationally known models for the most famous advertising agency in New York City.

Oh! oh! There goes the Police Patrol Wagon and I see Herbert Broderick, Alfred Oakes, Fred Gosnell, and Fred Schmitt looking out. Carey Dorsette, the daring test pilot of the Glenn Martin Airplane Company, seems to understand the situation so I'm going to ask him. Well, it seems that those two drummers, Herbert and Alfred, tried to steal the "Old Oaken Bucket" so that they could beat out a tune on it, aided by Fred Gosnell and Fred Schmidt; but they were thrown for a loss by the Police Department without serious damages to anyone.

Over on the far side of the field is the Medical Box, and in it I see Doctors Bob Wright, Mary Brown Briles, and nurses Virginia Beale, Catherine Crist, Helen Phillips, and May Graul. They seem to be very concerned over Bob Edwards, who was slightly crushed in the crowd.

Oboy! Some Actors and Actresses! I think I'll dash over to get their autographs. For goodness sakes! They are Josephine Anderson, Bill Follin, "Click" Martin, Connie Kelly, Virginia Gray, Nancy Wilson, and Henrietta Haines. Say, I can remember when they were starring in the Senior Play and the Cadet Show.

Notables from the newspaper world are here, too. Miss Mary Lynch, Society Editor of the "Washington Star", Mr. David Pusack, political writer for the "Washington Post", the drama critic of the "New York Sun", Mr. Dick Hayes, Mr. Clyde Reamy of the "Washington News", and George Craig, whose novel "Oranges of Wrath", is now running in the "Star" as a serial. There's Anne Carr also talking to W-L's cheerleaders, as she was a 1940 cheerleader.

Here are Misses Priscilla Baldwin and Kathryn Lee Rucker, stars of the Metropolitan Opera. And right behind them are Norman Hodgkinson and Dudley Judd, well-known architects who designed this school's stadium.

By the way, the Editor of the 1940 yearbook, Miss Aune Kangas, is now Editor-in-Chief of the "Times" magazine. I saw her awhile ago with Martha Hunt, one of the "Life" magazine photographers.

I see Anna Corocoran, C. P. A., Roy Teller, one director of the Mellon Art Gallery, Berkley Ball, Arlington County Circuit Judge, William Hill, also a C. P. A. and Charles Duthie, a teacher at George Washington University, talking over old times. In another group is Earl Harnest, professional basketball player, discussing with Ed Andersen, basketball coach at W-L, a new way in which to shoot baskets. Listening in are Lillie Torrance, Head Bookkeeper of the Clarendon Trust Company, and Sammy Keller, noted psychiatrist.

In the twisting, turning line of the "Snake Dance" are some comely-looking gentlemen: Messrs. John Foute, electrical engineer, Ernest Luther, Carl Coe, Harold Christ, Robert Clementson, all civil engineers, and Forrest Jones, head radio engineer of W. R. C.

Situated near the school is Dot Craig's Cowboy Band which has started to play some snappy numbers. I see Bruce Moody on the trombone, Norma Spivey on the drums, and Jack Olmsted playing a hot sax. In the group of onlookers I notice Bob Daniel, promising young concert violinist.

Oh, yes! I have an announcement to make. On Saturday at the Willard Hotel there will be a fashion show of new winter creations by Miss Mary Jane Francis of New York and Paris. Making a personal appearance with Miss Francis will be the Halliday twins, whose sketches are familiar to every reader of "Woman's Home Companion".

Co-Editors of the "Sun", which has grown to an enormous size, are Leroy Gillette and Jerry Holloway; Drama Editor is Catherine Coffman; Photographic Editor is Gloria Schuette; and handling the legal end is Lawyer Helen Payne. Jackson Brandt III adds a poetic touch to the paper by contributing poems.

The crowd is thinning out now and the field is slowly becoming empty. I guess I'll go have some turkey myself, but I can't help feeling that the Class of 1910 was one of the best if not the best of the Senior Classes to graduate from any high school. So, until next year's turkey day, this is "Yours truly" signing off."

LISTEN, MY CHILDREN

AND YOU SHALL HEAR

Of the Cadet show's eleventh year.
On March fifteen and sixteen in Forty.
not Five,
It was shown for those who were alive.
It was eight by the high-school clock.
And the curtain opened on the dot.
The kids all clapped; they waited for it to start.
The place was packed and the house was dark.
You know who directed it, but if not
I can tell you. It was Ma Malott.
I've seen her "Cadet Shows" around this "wood's neck."
Since Abraham offered up Iazeck.
"Growing Pains" was the name of the play.
The best given in many a day.
Bill Follin and Jo Anderson shared the lead,
And to make them up there was little need.
You can't guess who played the pa and
ma.
Kath Rucker and Jim Robinson. Ha! Ha!
They portrayed the characters in such a way
Some folks thought they hailed from
"Old Broadway."
Prudence Darling was Henrietta Haines.
Her mooning and hugging really raised
"Cain."
The girls wanted to give her to the wolves to eat.
With her "Oh's" and "Ah's" and "Gee, you're sweet's."
Her lovers numbered way above par.
One was Brian, played by Erwin Mc-Nemar.
Another, Dutch, was portrayed by Fritz
Schmidt
Whose lover's technique made quite a hit.

Patty, Norma Ward, was a "leddy"
Who always wanted to "go steady":
The Misses Chinn, Ames, and Hudson knew all the ropes
Until Prudence shattered all their hopes.
Elsie, Miss Dot Craig, was quite a date.
She's a girl "born fifty years too late."
Then there's Frances Macartney playing her mother
Who tries to hook her daughter a lover.
Alfee Oaks was another sweet boy—
His car really filled Bill Follin with joy.
Helen Bates was the prettiest maid I ever saw
Mrs. Mallot can pick them, can't you,
Ma?
Fred Ashton portrayed the part of Hal.
He, too, thought Prudence was quite a gal.
Louie Miller, as a policeman, really clicks.
He certainly would make a good chief of the "dicks."
When the curtain finally closed, we all sighed.
Everyone there was well satisfied.
We had seen a play that was well worth being seen.
Both play and cast should be on the screen.
Then it rose again for the annual cadet drill.
Compared to last year's, it was better still.
Here's hoping that Ma Malott's plays in years to come
Can be one-half as well portrayed as this one.
And last, let's commend the stage crew's work.
Not one boy on it had time to shirk.
Bobby Woodside and Forestr Jones had quite a job
Bossing their crews without the aid of a rod.

CUE AND CALL

The house lights are on, the curtain falls on another great performance in the Washington-Lee Theatre off Clarendon Square. The audience clap furiously as the actors and actresses make their curtain calls.

In the footlights we see the leading man, Charles Bang, playing opposite the beautiful leading lady, Norma Ward. Her arms are filled with flowers as she smiles to her audience.

Among those making their bows is Catherine Coffman who again plays the superb role of the old maid aunt. The make-up artist, Darriel Haddox, has certainly shown his excellent talent here tonight.

Bowing graciously are Ellen Herrald, as the opera star; Virginia Pumphrey, an English housemaid; Gloria Dansberger, the jolly Negro mammy; and Dorothy Craig, the country cousin. There is also a grand supporting cast: Jean Hollowell, Louise Tanner, Fred Vanderplank, Edna Chewning, Ruth Redfield, and many others.

After the last curtain call, the house lights are dimmed and the performers leave in a crowd of autograph seekers and photographers. The producer, W-L's own Miss Latham, looks very proud of this great production tonight.

But here I am letting my imagination again run away. Who knows, maybe the members of the 1940 Cue and Call will achieve this success in years to come. Here's to them, whatever they do, wherever they go. We know they'll make us proud of them.

POST GRADUATES

What energy, what ambition, is shown by our post-graduates. Although they have graduated, they feel they are not yet ready for college or the business world.

From the six-post-graduates of this year, four, Billy Byrnes, Bobby Hutchison, Harry Thompson, and John Cain, are graduates of Washington-Lee. Charlotte Smith graduated from Central High and Jack Pendleton, from McKinley Tech, both in Washington, D. C. They were all members of the June graduating classes.

The ambition of these P. G.'s extends beyond high school. Although different fields of study claim their interests, several of our post-graduates have chosen the University of Virginia as the next field of endeavor. Jack Pendleton will study business administration; Harry Thompson, law; and John Cain, aeronautical engineering. Billy Byrnes has not yet made up his mind in regard to the particular study, but, he, too, wishes to attend college at Charlottesville. Bobby Hutchison must want to impress the ladies, for he will attend V. P. I. where perhaps he might acquire a uniform. Charlotte Smith will work in a business office after school is out in June.

Thus, one sees our post-graduates. We've enjoyed very much having them in our classes and hope that they have enjoyed being here.

The 1940 Blue and Gray went to press sometime in late February, and with it went many other things, too. It wasn't just the so-called "dummy" that went in but also the many months of splitting headaches, cramped fingers, sleepy brains, and endless worries that forever plagued the members of the Staff. There was always something going on—perhaps typing, identification work, write-ups, add collecting, explanations being made, questions being asked, etc. The Staff worked hard throughout the year, so that when the Annual and all that went with it—hundreds of typewritten sheets, oodles of pictures, and notes on last minute details to the publisher—were mailed away to Baltimore, it was a gala day.

But then after it was really all over, the place didn't look the same anymore. There were no more people interrupting homeroom period and classes to collect money or to see people about Annual business. There were no more people excused from classes for pictures that were going in the Annual, but there still were worried looks on the faces of the Staff members. Why? They were worried because they didn't have anything to do and they missed all their hustling and bustling around, believe it or not.

FAMOUS SAYINGS OF AND ABOUT THE ANNUAL

"What's the Annual going to be like?" "I don't know (???)"

"How's the Annual coming?" "Swell!!!!"

"Goteha' money?"

"Support the Annual Dance!!!!"

"Subscriptions must be paid for by February 5!"

"Louie Miller, where's that write-up?"

"It's going to be better than ever before."

"Make it informal."

SERIOUSLY, THOUGH

The Annual wouldn't have been able to go to press when it did if it hadn't been for the grand co-operation the Staff received from the students and teachers alike. The understaff included not only the three Juniors but also everybody else that helped us, even if it was just the writing of one sentence. Thanks, and thanks some more.

MISS SALLY LOVING. Sponsor

Through the drizzle we wend our sleepy way to the meeting. The little "Kalage-thos" booklet said "morning meetings at 8:15." So at some unheard-of hour in the middle of the night, that unearthly clatter, that unending banging, we elimb creakingly out of bed, fall into our clothes, grab all the school properties we can see through sleep-bleared eyes, and totter off to school.

When we finally arrive, we manage at least to stay awake while our officers transact the business. The only thing that snaps us out of our lethargy is someone's mention of "refreshments." We sink back into the coma again upon discovering that the subject was brought up for some spot in the future activities of the chapter.

We come wide enough awake at 8:50 to hear the meeting-place for our monthly evening meeting and trundle off to our lockers and home-room period. Thence to classes.

Suddenly our seeretary pops out from behind a locker and reminds us that the evening meeting is tonight. We protest feebly that we just had a meeting day before yesterday, but on checking back we discover that two weeks actually have passed. After discovering this, we promptly forget until quarter to eight, at which time we regretfully tear ourselves away from the swing band program, announcing gleefully that we have no time for homework, and tear off to the meeting.

We arrive just in time to slide in on the first round of the peanut bowl and make a grab at the candy on its way by.

We pay close attention to the progress of the meeting until we just can't resist telling what happened to our next-door neighbor in third period.

And so it goes, life being lived by Honor Society members in remarkably the same manner as others, finishing one job just in time to dive into another and finish it ten seconds before the deadline.

Seriously, though, the Honor Society represents highest achievements in the school, with the selection of its members based on Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service.

The general outward impresison of the organization and its purposes lead many to regard it as an exclusive group of antique bookworms. This falsity of belief should be expelled and the members exonerated of any such actions. We are undoubtedly what are generally termed "regular fellows" and even possbily as much "jitterbugs" as the rest of you.

Although noted for its formal initiation, it is actually at other times very informal to say the least. Not being geniuses or immortals, we must struggle over Trig problems just as often as anyone else. We read just as many of the same comic strips and as few of the classics as possible. All in all, we seem to be just about like anyone else in high school. Say, who said we were bookworms anyway?

Shown below is Bob Clementson being taken into the Honor Society in the Spring of 1939.

HOT OFF THE PRESS!!!

"Where's your column?" shouts the wrathful voice of Jerry Holloway, Co-Editor of "Crossed Sabres. "We go to press in half an hour!"

"It's being typed," answers Warren Choate. "but here are seven sport stories, two cartoons, and a few other things."

"Where's that Student Government write-up?" asks Co-Editor Leroy Gillette, bending over the dummy and shouting in order to be heard.

Yes, it's your bi-monthly newspaper before publication. "Crossed Sabres," with the sponsorship of Miss Orndorff, the headaches of Leroy Gillette and Jerry Holloway, the cartoons of Warren Choate, and columns by Jack Olmsted, Mary Lynch, Mildred French, and Dot Marsh, not to mention the erstwhile Snooper, Jo Anderson, prove to be paramount production of the school this year.

How many times have you seen this? No news is good news—"Oh, yeah" says the Editor.

Billy Long isn't far behind the Editors when it comes to yelling. "What!! Only thirty inches of ads?? We need co-operation!!" With Mrs. Corcoran doing the most worry and Billy Long doing the most work, the Business Club browbeat more people into advertising than it had ever done before, not to speak of intimidating a number of students into becoming subscribers. The Business Club is composed of those horrified individuals upon whom you vent your wrath when your paper isn't received.

Until the combining of the two clubs, these busy people secured all subscriptions and advertising which made "Crossed Sabres" possible.

"Experience is the best teacher," might be the motto of the 10th grade newspaper club. From present and past work they have gained experience necessary for future responsibilities. Little is heard of these club members now but in a year or two they will succeed the present staff.

BOYS' GLEE CLUB

In its second year as a full-time organization, the Boys' Glee Club has made several important changes in its program. Elimination of part-time members has thrown a new responsibility upon the various sections, making for a more constant membership.

Highlights of the year's program are two guest appearances at St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, Washington, various assembly appearances, a performance in the service of Faith Lutheran Church, participation in the Richmond Festival, and a full recital at King-Smith Studio Playhouse. Of special note is the fact that the pastor of Faith Lutheran Church is Rev. Grevenow, formerly in charge of the Glee Club in its early days.

For the common things of every day,
God gave man speech in the common way.
For the deeper things men think and feel,
God gave the poet words to reveal.
For the heights and depths no word can reach.
God gave men music, the soul's own speech.

MIXED CHORUS

This is the second year of activity for the Mixed Chorus. Made up of the combined Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs, it was first introduced to Washington-Lee at last year's annual Spring Concert. In its subsequent participation in the Richmond Festival, the group was ranked superior, and goes into this year's competition hoping to maintain its standard.

The Chorus, with Miss Booker and Mr. Page as co-directors, has as yet no formal organization. Even so, it has become a fixture in the devotional assemblies of the school. It hopes to increase its scope of activities as it gains in experience.

MRS. FLETCHER'S HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

Attention, boys:

If you are looking for a thrifty and good-looking future housewife, look up Mrs. Fletcher's Home Economics Club.

How they can work and gossip at the same time is beyond us, but they get their work done and even have time to fix up "cats."

"The way to a man's heart is through his stomach" is a true saying according to the girls in Miss Smith's Home Economics Club.

Luncheons, parties, sewing, and handwork have been tried by these young maidens. 'Course, they've made mistakes, but as the saying goes, "We learn by doing."

THE WASHINGTON-LEE SENIOR HI-Y

Organized under the able leadership of Mr. Jackson, the Washington-Lee unit of the Hi-Y, an affiliate of the Y.M.C.A., has adopted some of the spirit of that body; a spirit that makes for Clean Speech, Clean Sports, Clean Scholarship, and Clean Living at all times. So far as the position of the club in the school is concerned, it has ever been one of service. It initiates in its members a desire to create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character.

Early in the year the Hi-Y Club volunteered the services of its members for patrol duty at such time when this service would be needed.

March of this year found the club realizing one project which they had entertained for several years. At that time, the club succeeded in sponsoring successfully the well-known lecture on the passion play presented by Dr. Anton Lang of George Washington University. The lecture, under the auspices of the club, was indorsed by the churches and schools of the county.

The club admits members once each semester, and the initiation and induction ceremonies number among the highlights of the club program. Admission is limited to boys of the upper three grades.

At weekly meetings the trend of discussions is toward school, social, and youth problem in general, with which we are all concerned at one time or other.

The club has the privilege of using Y.M.C.A. facilities, and a weekly visit to the "Y" is included among its activities. Fellowship with other clubs is maintained throughout the year.

SCIENCE CLUB

Exposure to science in general has become the purpose of the Science Club. It was originally organized for the increase of scientific knowledge throughout the school. However slight the scientific attainment of its members may be, they have, during the process of their minute exposure, acquired a brilliant knowledge of all the trivial tricks that may be used in a laboratory. These range from pure, unadulterated pranks, to those of a more serious accidental type such as the strange location of sulfuric acid in the most inconceivable places, namely steel drains, pants, desks, and anything else within dropping distance when it is used.

Attaching the bunsen burner to the water jet is not an uncommon occurrence. At times during experiments it is hard to discern whether someone is doing a juggling act with glassware or just naturally clumsy enough not to be able to think up any other way to accomplish his share of the breakage of equipment. There is always a noisy little group arguing persistently over some trivial scientific hearsay. These word battles usually result in a draw to the benefit of all concerned.

Perhaps outweighing the members' little eccentricities is the Club's actual achievement in spreading scientific knowledge among members. They should be complimented for this partial fulfillment of their purpose.

ON A BICYCLE BUILT FOR ... ONE

Ah, well, that is the safest way after all. One of the main purposes of this club is to help prevent bicycling accidents by educating its members in the proper methods of riding and at the same time to teach them the rules and regulations of the road, for you know, there are rules in riding bicycles as well as in driving automobiles.

The club hopes to take several field trips to nearby points of interest, and in this way put into practical use the things they have learned previously. In the spring the W-L Bicycle Club will probably enjoy many picnics with their bicycles serving as transportation.

The Senior High Bicycle Club was so successful the first semester that the Junior High demanded one also, and now there are two in the school. Mr. Richardson, the sponsor, hopes that soon the other two Junior Highs and the elementary schools may enjoy the advantages of a Bicycle Club as has our school.

Next year, there may be a federation of Bicycle Clubs in Arlington County, which will be another step towards the ultimate goal of the Bicycle Club—to become a member of the National Organization of Bicycle Clubs.

Pass in

Two years of direction under Major Raymond G. Payne, U.S.A., have left their mark on the W-L Cadet Corps. Aside from an increase in size and military knowledge, the corps has gained for itself an even finer reputation for dependability as a service organization in the school.

The cadet year began in an especially significant manner as the corps adopted new infantry drill regulations. The problems of new drill were discussed and "ironed-out" in summer classes held by the P.M.S.&T.; the transition was made with little difficulty. The new regulations, simplifying the drill, have made precision the foremost factor in competition. Notwithstanding this fact, the Cadet Corps looked forward to its second successive victory in competition over Rau-dolph-Macon Military Academy and its traditional rival, George Washington High School. Through the efforts of Major Payne, every cadet company at both schools had the opportunity to participate in this year's competitive drill.

Fittingly enough with George Washington's Birthday of this year, the Second Battalion of the Corps of Cadets, Washington-Lee High School, was officially created and a major designated as battalion commander. The Second Battalion includes the cadets of Claude A. Swanson and Thomas Jefferson Junior High Schools. With the three battalions and a band, the corps can boast a personnel of over five hundred men. This increase brings home even more the necessity of a properly surfaced drill field and the corps is working toward this goal.

Review!

One feature which makes the cadet organization unique is that its policy and administration are controlled by its student officers giving it the co-operation necessary to do any job well.

Off the drill field the cadets organized their Rifle Team, which fired by correspondence as well as against local teams. An especially interesting correspondence match was fired with a high school in Honolulu T. H. A Military Science Club discussed problems which deal with actual combat. Of course, one of the outstanding Cadet Corps activities is its annual Cadet Show with exhibition drills.

The 1930-40 edition of the Sam Browne Club congratulates Major R. G. Payne, P.M.S.&T., on the excellent progress he has made during his stay with the Washington-Lee Cadet Corps. May his continued presence make it possible for successive Sam Browne Clubs to do likewise.

The Sam Browne Club is composed of commissioned officers of the Boys' Battalion of the Washington-Lee Cadet Corps—the outstanding purposes of which are to attempt to solve problems which concern the corps and at the same time to promote fellowship among the corps officers.

Nevertheless, the club is found in its best form when it is planning or presenting some social event, and its fame in the school has been made accordingly. The club's Goodwill Dance, the first of the year, put the school social season in full swing, and the Regimental Ball leads it to a brilliant climax. The Ball, a social event on the school calendar, is always a great success, enjoyed by everyone.

SADIE WILLIAMS CLUB

"The meeting will please come to order," commands Major Throgmorton and the last meeting of the 1940 Sadie Williams Club begins.

Major Throgmorton continues:

"On the whole the past year has been a successful one for our club. A difficult task was done very efficiently by our officers in the handling of the persons under their care at the National Symphony Concert.

I wish to commend Captain Bates of Company I for the excellent drilling of her company in the Cadet Show.

A noticeable change was made in the uniforms at the beginning of this year. White shoes, sweaters, and gloves were substituted for the gray and black, and gold braid brightens up the caps and capes. Small, gold P's, K's, or L's identify members of each company. All captains now carry sabres. These changes have resulted in a more attractive and complete uniform.

We have gotten a great deal of enjoyment from wearing our Sadie Williams pins this year. The gold sabre and W-L guard make an unusual and good-looking ensemble.

On behalf of everyone in the Girls' Auxiliary, I wish to express to Miss Williams our appreciation of the time and effort which she has devoted to the improvement of this organization.

It has been a pleasure to work with everyone, from the privates to the captains. I hope that the acquaintances made this year will ripen into ageless friendships. Good-bye to you all and good luck."

The 1939 season opened for Coaches Johnny Baker and Harry Deming with about 60 boys reporting for practice, of these 12 were lettermen. From the first day of September when practice began the theme of the squad was hard work and more hard work. But the fruit of their labors was an undefeated team before the curtain came down on the greatest year a Washington-Lee Eleven has ever experienced.

The season opened with a bang! polishing off National Training School to the tune of 29-0. The following week Eastern High fell before the onslaught of the "Little Generals" 14-2. But the power of W-L was shown against Western High, Interhigh Champs, when Merrill Hoover's toe provided a 1 point victory 7-6. Hoover's Magic was still effective as he kicked another victory over Central 14-13 aided by Wally Leggs' ball-carrying. Gonzaga, Anacostia, and Fredericksburg fell in quick succession by the scores of 13-6, 47-0, and 21-0. For a while it looked as if the Anacostia Game was a track meet rather than a football game; even Pee Wee was trying to find a uniform to fit him so he could play too. Calvert Hall, an unknown team around this section was our next victim with a death sentence of 20-0. St. Johns seemed to have caught the fever of our opponents succumbing to that dread disease of defeat 28-13.

Who can forget that clear, cold, frosty morning November 23, 1939? We are sure no one in Washington-Lee will, and could not even if they wanted to. George Washington High was after our scalps and there was no denying it. But there was something that George Washington had failed to reckon with and that was a group of 10 seniors and the veterans of last year's humiliating defeat. Those seniors were not going to graduate without first avenging for the spirits of those 1938 players; neither were the other veterans of last year's game. It was a hard fought, clean game and we beat George Washington 21-7.

After the season Washington-Lee gained further honors. For the first time in the history of the mythical All-Northern Virginia Team our whole starting lineup placed on the first and second teams. On the first team were selected Robert Kelly, Guard and Co-Captain of W-L; Merrill Hoover, Left Tackle; Billy Carr, Center; and Louie Miller, Right End. Of the Backs Jimmy French and Russell Arnaud were selected with Arnaud being named as the captain of the first team.

CLEAN PLAY!!! GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP!!!

What an enviable reputation for the Washington-Lee basketball team! Are we proud of them? Yes, and we don't mean maybe. In addition these boys seem to have a moderate degree of success.

Coach Richardson's boys have played what might be termed hot and cold basketball. On one of their hot occasions they defeated Eastern High, one of the finer teams of the D. C., and at another time, Bethesda-Chevy Chase of Bethesda, Md. The team also played in the Star Tournament this year.

To mention an outstanding player would be unfair to the rest of the squad, but the outstanding performances of several of the players simply have to be brought to light. "Shorty" Alexander was the individual high scorer of the team, almost scoring at will; Eddie Andersen, the captain of the team, superb in defense and offense playing; Ruben MacNab, outstanding for taking the ball off the backboard; last, but not least, Vinnie Kirschner, another excellent defense man. All in all, the squad was composed of a fine group of players.

MONOGRAM CLUB

"Look, aren't they cute? Pigtailed and short dresses! The Monogram Club seems to think of an endless variety of stunts for their initiation."

Such might be a comment heard on a certain fall night along Wilson Boulevard in Clarendon. Oh, the torture those goats endure, everything from mild electric shocks to pushing peanuts with their noses.

But it's well worth it. After they get their blue and gray "Letters," they feel that they have conquered the world, and nothing is too hard to attempt. This is best shown by the lofty goal which they aspire. These girls wish to encourage and further develop girls' athletics, and to promote good-will among all girls in Washington-Lee.

These girls are the most promising girl athletes in the school, but this does not mean they are one-sided at all. To obtain their letters, which are required for entrance into the club, they must have five hundred points for athletics, and one hundred each for scholarship, citizenship, leadership, sportsmanship, and health.

Meetings are held once a month at the home of one of the members.

To encourage intra-mural athletics, the Monogram Club is presenting an emblem to each member of the winning team in each girls' sport. To finance this and other activities, the girls sell candy, "hot dogs," and soft drinks at all home football games.

The high light of the year is the spring dance. This is a gala event and eagerly looked forward to by all members of the Monogram Club.

BE AHEAD OF THE CROWD

Take advantage of the ten weeks of summer intensive course in shorthand and typewriting at Arlington Institute. The half day sessions begin July 1.

IF YOU ARE GOING TO COLLEGE:

You will be prepared to take those very important class notes during the lecture, instead of wishing you could.

You can submit those neatly typed themes which always draw a better grade—and the typewriter is so much faster.

You can type your own term papers instead of paying someone else to do it for you—type for others and get paid for it.

IF YOU ARE PREPARING FOR A JOB:

Get the advantage of completing your secretarial course before the thousands of spring graduates start job hunting. Be one of the few and get a better position.

SCHOOL FOR SECRETARIES is fully accredited and maintains college standards for admission and class work. Day and evening classes. Advanced students enter any Monday. Fall term September 16.
